

Legal Strategies for Separating Business and Personal Life

Improperly separating your business and personal life can put your personal property at risk and leave you vulnerable to legal and tax risks. A team of experts from the Vermont Small Business Law Center at Vermont Law and Graduate School will discuss separating personal and business matters using tools like business entities, contracts, and insurance. We will also discuss the benefits and risks of going into business with, or taking money from, family and friends. Whether you're a solopreneur or looking to grow, this webinar will help you protect yourself along the way.

This class is appropriate for startup and existing businesses.
